NMUN

SPONSOR OF THE WORLD'S LARGEST COLLEGE MODEL UN

Dear Friends,

During the 2013-14 academic year, the National Collegiate Conference Association (NCCA) provided more than 6,000 university students an international forum to discuss and debate pressing global issues.

Finding Common Ground

Our National Model United Nations (NMUN) conferences are experiential learning opportunities that allow participants to find common ground with peers from a wide range of backgrounds. With more than half of our delegates coming from outside the United States, the conferences offer preparation for global citizenship to the next generation of international leaders. Students develop skills to continue to make a difference; they were encouraged to be forces for change in messages delivered this year by conference speakers such as The Hon. Samantha Power, US Permanent Representative to the UN and H.E. Jan Eliasson, UN Deputy Secretary-General.

Flourishing through Your Efforts

The NCCA is grateful for the dedicated individuals, past and present, whose gifts of time and resources have allowed our programs to flourish. Quality NMUN programs result from the efforts of delegates, faculty advisors, and our tremendous volunteers. I would also like to acknowledge the support of our 2013-14 program partners – in particular the UN Department of Public Information (New York), the Osgood Center for International Studies (DC), Yonsei University (Republic of Korea), and Northwest Model UN (Portland, Oregon).

A Look to the Future

Looking ahead, delegates are invited to new programs in Rome, Italy (Nov. 2014), Olomouc, Czech Republic (Nov. 2015) and our annual conferences in Washington, DC and New York City.

I encourage you to review this summary report as well as to visit nmun.org to learn more about student experiences through photos and videos. Thank you for your interest and support.

Peace,

Michael Eaton
Executive Director

Our Mission

To advance understanding of the UN System and contemporary global issues through quality educational programs that emphasize collaboration and cooperative conflict resolution and prepare participants for active global citizenship.

Experiential Learning Programs

Our programs provide a diverse group of informed students and their faculty advisors a forum for addressing global concerns in a real world context. Conferences address important issues including regional conflicts, peacekeeping, human rights, women and children, economic and social development, and the environment. Our goal is to provide a better understanding of the inner workings of the UN as students build skills in diplomacy and compromise. In the past year, over 6,000 university students from six continents attended our conferences in New York City; Washington, DC; Songdo, South Korea; and Portland, Oregon.

Growth and Development of Participants

Attendees report NMUN significantly contributes to becoming a better global citizen by:

- 91% - Increasing understanding of the complexities of international relations
- 90% - Increasing knowledge of the functions, structure and limitations of the UN
- 90% - Expanding knowledge of political, economic and social conditions in other countries
- 89% - Teaching better understanding of different perspectives on global issues

Attendees also report NMUN helps develop these skills:

- 91% - Negotiation and Conflict Resolution
- 88% - Team-building
- 84% - Leadership
- 85% - Public Speaking
- 87% - Research
- 81% - Writing

Results compiled from NMUN•NY 2014 attendee evaluations.

"We can all do something bigger if we follow our passion...it's not about changing the entire world, it's about changing something in this world to make it a better place. Nobody can do everything, but everybody can do something."
– Ahmad Alhendawi, UN Secretary-General's Envoy on Youth

Global Diversity

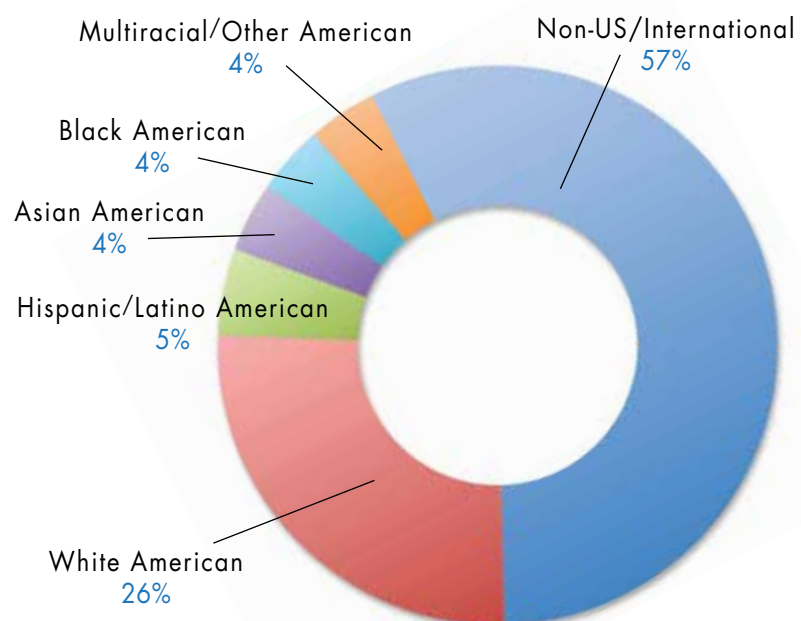

The continued growth of NMUN simulations has resulted in more diverse conference attendees and a more accurate reflection of the United Nations. More than 50% of our participants are from outside the US.

Participant Schools from UN Member States

Schools from these 52 UN Member States sent delegations to NMUN•NY 2014, contributing to the NMUN initiative to provide participants with the insights needed to become better global citizens and the next generation of international leaders.

Our Dedicated Volunteers

Each year over 150 volunteer staff members research topics, facilitate committees, and help organize our conferences. We would not be able to run our conferences without their dedication.

Our Program Partners

The NCCA recognizes the extraordinary support and commitment of the organizations that have helped to enhance the quality of our programs and expand our reach.

Stewardship

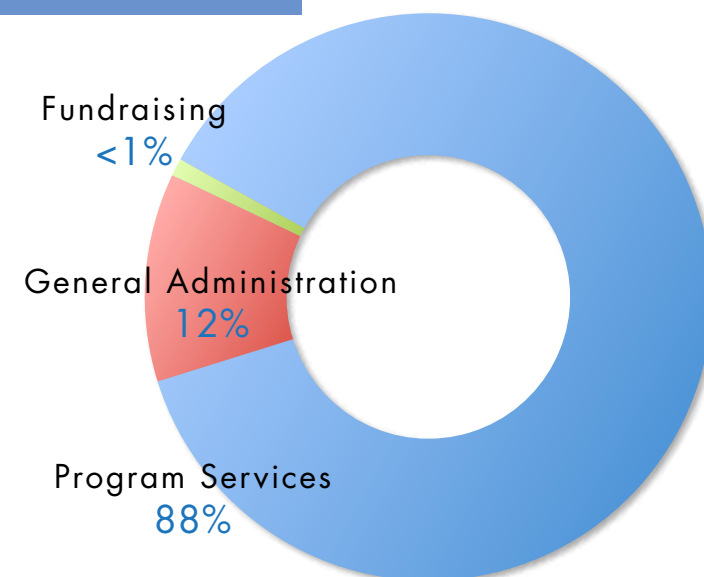

As a small nonprofit organization, NCCA/NMUN is proud that 88% of support is spent directly on programs and less than 1% on fundraising. Information on how you can be involved with gifts of your time or financial resources may be found at nmun.org/give.html.
